

What to do if your child is reluctant to write at home

- Relax, it is important not to worry if your child does not show an interest at home. If a child feels pressurised they will not want to perform, more often than not when they have a real reason to write they will choose to do it. Talk to your keyperson if you would like any support. The important thing is to keep on sharing books and talking.